What's On in Communications, Drama & Film

Wed 11 October at 16:30

The expressive power of the body: from stage to film

A collaboration between members of the [redacted] physical theatre company and Bryan Brown. In this afternoon research seminar, we will focus on the devising of the company's current touring production of Roy Caron (performing at the Northcott on the evening of 28th October) and how the company translated the artist's paintings into stage pictures, developed a coherent stage dramaturgy and then translated that work into film.

Corporeal Mime and Intercultural Performer Training

This workshop with internationally acclaimed Japanese physical theatre company [redacted] will introduce you to the history and legacy of Decroux's corporeal mime. Focussing primarily on technique, this will be a practical workshop with some discussion of contemporary intercultural performer training and practice. For more detailed understanding of the company's work and their stage show Roy...
